About the Author Dr. Cheryl McClary has successfully combined a career as a fulltime professor, mother, wife, published country & western songwriter and even a judge over the past 25 years. The Commitment Chronicles: How You CAN Stay Happily Married is the story of how she has done that and how any reader can also succeed in keeping a committed relationship together.

A native of Memphis Tennessee, Dr. McClary received her Ph.D. in public health from The University of Tennessee along with her MS and J.D. from Memphis State University. Her academic training included concentration in science, microbiology, chemistry, and biology. She also attended the University of Dijon (France) studying language.

These include chair of the Department of Health & Fitness, Director of the Health Promotion Department, and Director of the Hippocrates Pre-Med Program. Her academic focus in the past decade has been the effect of relationships on health and counseling women who are seeking resolution of relationship problems.
